

News flash: All inbound international flights to Beijing will be taken a preposition quarantine in the designated airports

Five central government departments (the Civil Aviation Administration, the General Administration of Customs, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the National Health Commission and the National Immigration Administration) issued a notice on March 22, 2020, that from March 23, 2020, all international flights scheduled to land in Beijing will be taken a preposition quarantine in the designated airports in Tianjin City, Shijiazhuang City, Taiyuan City, Hohhot City, Shanghai Pudong, Jinan City, Qingdao City, Nanjing City, Shenyang City, Dalian City, Zhengzhou City, Xian City.

The designated airports for each flight can be searched through the official website of the Civil Aviation Administration and the airlines.

Passengers on the above flights will be subject to the health and quarantine process at the designated airports, and they will go through the entry procedures there. However, the checked baggage still needs to be cleared in Beijing. Passengers who eligible for boarding after the examination will be allowed to take the same plane to Beijing later. However, according to the previous situation, passengers are more likely to be put under quarantine in designated places for 14 days when arriving at the designated airports. And accommodation and dining fees at designated places need to be paid by passengers themselves.
